Introduction

The Payfast Guide to Going Online is a comprehensive ebook to help aspiring entrepreneurs such as yourself turn your hobby into a successful online business.

In this sixth chapter of the guide, we offer advice on what you can do to convert website visitors into customers, and to keep your existing customer base loyal.

CHAPTER 06

Converting visitors into customers

- 1 Reduce cart abandonment
- 2 Be transparent
- 3 Offer a variety of payment options
- 4 Keep your website secure
- 5 Be proactive
- 6 Reduce returns and refunds

It can take a while to get customers, so don't lose hope. According to Warrick Kernes, SA's Ecommerce Expert, on average it can take 800 views before you make your first sale. While the main tip here would be to persevere and give it your all, there are a few other things you can do to convert website visitors into customers, and to keep your existing customer base loyal.

- Be honest and authentic. No one expects perfection, apologise when you mess up and celebrate the wins altogether.
- Be very clear on how your product will improve someone's life. Why do they need it, what problem is it solving and HOW can they take action to obtain it?
- Sell the experience not the product. You have to solve a problem and sell the solution. This way you are personalising the experience.
- Have clarity around your messaging, your products and even your company mission and values. Don't force people to waste energy on guess work.
- Research constantly. Always be aware of what's 'trending' and stay ahead of the curve by being honest and authentic.
- Don't forget about existing customers. Yes new customers are important but nurturing the ones you have is equally if not more important.

Protip: Run deals and promotions

If it's something you can effectively plan for, run specials and discounts where, for example, customers can get free shipping or pay for two items and get a third for free. These deals are extremely effective in boosting sales, especially if they are shared via social media and in email blasts to your database.

Another great option is to offer product bundles, where if your customer buys a few items together they get a discount.

1

Reduce cart abandonment

Cart abandonment, which is where customers add products to their shopping carts with no intention of completing the purchase, is an unfortunate occurrence that every online store has to deal with.

According to a study, the global average rate of cart abandonment is 75.6%, where the average abandonment rate on mobile phones is 85.65%.

The main reasons attributed to cart abandonment include:

- Only browsing or researching
- Slow loading website
- Bad navigation
- Long process
- Hidden or expensive costs
- No free shipping
- Expensive shipping
- Difficulty with the payment process
- Too few payment options
- Security concerns

2 Be transparent

The best way to avoid some of these issues is to be transparent about your prices, shipping costs and hidden costs from the start. You could even describe the checkout process next to the product description, for example, “checkout in three easy steps”. It’s also a good idea to add wishlist functionality so that visitors to your website can save items for future purchases.

Customers are happy to wait for orders if this has been communicated to them at the time of purchase, and you regularly communicate order progress with that customer.

If your website, shopping cart or payment gateway is too complicated to navigate, you could do the following to simplify the checkout process:

- Offer a Buy Now button instead of a shopping cart for single product purchases.
- Give buyers the option to checkout as guests to expedite the transaction process.
- Make it easy to apply discount vouchers.
- Make online help easy to access, such as a clear contact page, returns policy, live online chats or FAQs.
- Make shipping free above a certain threshold e.g. if someone has an order over R500 the shipping will be free.

3 Offer a variety of payment options

While card and Instant EFT are the most popular online payment methods, your customers may prefer alternative ways to pay for their online purchases. To broaden your reach, by signing up with a payment platform like Payfast you can offer a wide variety of popular payment options, including cards, Instant EFT, Scan to Pay, Zapper, Snapscan, SCode, Store Cards, MoreTyme and Mobicred.

5 Keep your website secure

With Google taking Internet security more seriously than ever, the padlock icon in your browser may be sufficient to set some potential buyers' minds at ease. Refer back to the 'Secure your website' section in Chapter 3.

6 Be proactive

Refer to your website's statistics to understand the point at which things went wrong and resulted in cart abandonment. You can then try to resolve the issue by sending out a customised, personalised email where you offer a solution.

For example, for those who abandoned their carts because of shipping costs, offer free or reduced shipping. If they got lost in navigation while checking out, send an email with a 'Buy Now' button, bypassing the normal checkout process. If their credit card was declined, let them know of alternative payment options.

Learn from these pain points and improve the usability of your website. Maybe you need to add better and clearer product copy, redesign the layout of your website, make your online store more mobile friendly or reassess your shipping costs.

7 Reduce returns and refunds

The best way to avoid having to refund a customer and deal with returns is to be transparent and clear in your communication with them.

Not only is it important to clearly publish your returns policy on your website, but also include detailed product descriptions, including colour, weight and size. Don't forget to add clear photos that correctly represent the product so that customers know exactly what they are paying for.

Here are some other useful tips for reducing returns and refunds:

- Don't sell poor quality products.
- Have good processes in place to ensure you don't send the wrong product by accident.
- Be honest with delivery time frames, if there's a delay clearly communicate this with your customer.
- Manage and track your inventory so you know when it's time to reorder low stock.

Protip: Manage your inventory

A great way to foresee inventory needs is to monitor the traffic of your website and to keep track of what you've been sharing on social media. If your marketing campaigns have been successful there could be a spike in demand.

It's also important to pre-empt seasonal trends and holidays that could lead to more consumer demand, and of course stock up before you run any promotions.

As an online store, building trust is very important. As convenient and popular as online shopping may be, your consumer needs to trust you in order to click that 'proceed to payment' button. An amazing product paired with a trustworthy brand and great after-sales care and support is a winning formula. ”

Protip: Build customer loyalty

While it's important to convert website visitors into customers, it's just as important – if not more so, to make sure they return. While we've already highlighted a few important things you can do to retain customers, here are a few other suggestions:

- Be honest and authentic. No one expects perfection, apologise when you mess up and celebrate the wins altogether.
- Be very clear on how your product will improve someone's life. Why do they need it, what problem is it solving and HOW can they take action to obtain it?
- Sell the experience not the product. You have to solve a problem and sell the solution. This way you are personalising the experience.
- Have clarity around your messaging, your products and even your company mission and values. Don't force people to waste energy on guess work.
- Research constantly. Always be aware of what's 'trending' and stay ahead of the curve by being honest and authentic.
- Don't forget about existing customers. Yes new customers are important but nurturing the ones you have is equally if not more important.
